Trading was light today, with oil and products trying to gain momentum higher, however the end result was mediocre. WTI futures climbed to $42.32, the high for the day, finished slightly lower at $42.15. Heating Oil showed a gain of $0.156 to $1.2863 and RBOB rose $0.0127 to $1.1752. Next week watch for the API and EIA stock reports, which will be released at their normal days and times, to see if there will be a 10th consecutive draw on distillates.
